

ALDRICH BILL TO BE TABLED

House Committee On Banking Reach This Decision This Morning.

NEW MEASURE TO BE HEARD FROM

Vreeland Of New York, Is Said To Have A Substitute
Measure That Fits All The Requirements Of The Case.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Washington, D. C., April 17.—The house committee on banking and currency today voted unanimously to table the Aldrich financial bill.

It also decided to give a hearing tomorrow to Representative Vreeland of New York, who recently introduced a financial bill which is looked upon as a substitute for the Aldrich measure.

Yesterday's speech of Alfred D. Crozier of Wilmington, Del., in opposition to the bill did its work.

While opposing the bill "on principle," he said, "the members of that committee objected to it because the emergency currency was to bear six per cent. interest, and are ready to support it now if the interest is reduced to three per cent."

Says They Want Interest Reduced.
"Last evening our distinguished banking friends held a conference," he said. "To-day they are having another, with the wicked promoters of the wicked Aldrich and Vreeland bills. What for? They are agreeing on a compromise. On what basis? Just a simple little amendment reducing the tax to three per cent. and some other minor changes."

He declared that this conference was only held after it was stated that the hearings before the banking and currency committee had been closed.

How He Learned of the Plot.
"If this committee had not honored me with this opportunity to speak at this postscript to the public hearing," said Mr. Crozier, "and if one of the distinguished bankers who addressed me yesterday had not mistaken me last evening for one of their fraternity and unceremoniously told me the whole program, the trick would have been turned quickly and suddenly. The business interests of the country might never have known that they had been sold out by their banking partners, and even this committee might not in time have become aware that the great men who appeared here against the bill openly were in fact favoring it privately.

"The Aldrich bill," Mr. Crozier declared, "is a gambling game from start to finish brought here by gamblers and promoted by gamblers for gambling purposes."

Panic Made to Order?
He asserted stoutly that he knew the late financial stringency was brought on deliberately by Wall street men.

"I was told in Wall street that such a measure as the Aldrich bill would be brought before this congress and that a panic would precede it."

Mr. Prince suggested that this charge was a very serious one, and ought not to be made on opinion but on actual facts. Mr. Crozier replied that if a commission was appointed he would furnish a list of witnesses to the counsel by whom this charge can be proved.

An evidence of the conspiracy to bring on a panic Mr. Crozier said a prominent financier told the president of the New York, New Haven & Hartford company that it was to be brought on before the meeting of congress, and on that information, he said, the railroad borrowed $30,000,000.

Urged to tell who the financier predicting a panic was Mr. Crozier said he did not like to give his name at this time, but would give it to the counsel of any commission congress might appoint to investigate the causes of the recent financial crisis. He predicted that when the panic was finally investigated it would be seen that there had been a concentration of banking capital in New York.

IT IS FEARED THAT STORY MAY SUICIDE

Cashier of the Belleville Bank Will Be Lodged in the Dane County Jail.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., April 17.—Edwin C. Story, defaulting cashier of the Chicago State bank of Belleville and would-be suicide, continues to recover from the effects of the poison he took and was brought here and lodged in jail today. He is closely watched and another attempt at suicide is feared.

The stockholders today signed a written agreement, binding themselves to pay their pro rata share of the $30,000 embezzled. The bonding company which was Story's surety will pay $10,000 and it is hoped to recover some of the money taken by him.

District Attorney Mason said he would not be arrested in municipal court before Monday, according to advice he had received from the state banking department.

Today the physician in Belleville reports that Story is improving rapidly, and while there might be a chance to move him Friday, so long as he is kept under the surveillance of two of the sheriff's deputies, it is thought safe not to bring him to jail before Saturday. Even in such a short period as that, the doctor says there might be a possibility for a relapse.

Story cannot be arraigned before Monday because the investigation of the banking department has not progressed far enough to reveal what the total amount of the theft is. This can be completed by Monday. He will be arraigned as having violated the state banking law, which fixes the penalty from one to 20 years, with or fine as an alternate, upon conviction.

SHERIFF LOOKING FOR UNKNOWN MAN

Aged Woman Was Assaulted Last Night and Left Dying on Floor of Hut.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Manitowish, Wis., April 17.—Torn from her bed at midnight, assaulted and left dying on the floor of the hut in which she made her home, Mrs. Christensen, a town charge in the town of Liberty, was found early this morning by her neighbors. The attack was made by an unknown man for whom the sheriff is making a diligent search, but has been unable to get any trace of him so far. The woman is seventy-four years of age and lives alone. She has been in feeble health for years and is unable to give any description of her assailant. The people of Valders village have organized and are making a search of the surrounding country and if he is found a lynching will probably be the result as the people are very much roused up over the attack.

NO CHANGE SHOWN BY DUN'S REPORTS

Easier Money Market Is Having Beneficial Effect on Collections.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
New York, April 17.—Dispatches to Dun's review indicate that the business situation shows no material change, the improvement in some directions being offset by curtailment in other departments, although the easier money market is having a beneficial effect on collections.

SOUTHERN SPINNERS TALK OVER MARKET

Will Consider Condition of Market
And Take Necessary Steps.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Charlotte, N. C., April 17.—The Southern Hosiery Manufacturers' Association, representing the greater number of the mills of the South, assembled for a special meeting in this city today to consider the condition of the market and take such action as may be deemed expedient. The speakers regard the outlook as very unsatisfactory. A number of the mills have been curbing production for some time, and it is thought likely a plan will be agreed upon whereby practically all of the mills will close down after they get out the product they are now running on. The duration of the shut-down will depend upon the future developments in the market conditions.

DR. PARKHURST IS SIXTY-SIX TODAY

Famous Reformer of New York City
Is Celebrated on His Birth Day.

New York, April 17.—Dr. Charles Henry Parkhurst was sixty-six years old today and was reminded of the anniversary by the receipt of numerous letters and messages of congratulation. Commissioner Blagden of the police department probably was not among the senders of these felicitous greetings, for Dr. Parkhurst recently incurred the ire of the commissioner by publicly stating that conditions in the metropolis at the present time were if anything worse than in the days of the "Red Child" Delany.

LIVELY CAMPAIGN STARTED IN SOUTH

Rival Candidates For Tennessee Democratic Nomination Will Debate.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Chattanooga, Tenn., April 17.—In a joint debate here tonight between Governor Patterson and ex-Senator Carmack the ball will be started rolling in what promises to be one of the liveliest gubernatorial campaigns Tennessee has ever witnessed. After much negotiation the rival candidates for the Democratic nomination for governor finally agreed upon a series of joint debates, that of tonight in this city being the first on the list. Altogether the programme provides for nearly fifty of these joint appearances on the stump and before the campaign is finished the two candidates will be heard in every section of the state. The campaign will carry them to within two weeks of the gubernatorial primary, which has been fixed to take place near the end of June.

GOOD FRIDAY IS OBSERVED TODAY

Financial Institutions Are Closed In Many Cities And Special Services Held.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
New York, April 17.—The fact that Good Friday and the Hebrew Feast of the Passover fell on the same day this year resulted in a general suspension of business in the metropolis. Many of the large financial institutions and mercantile establishments, as well as the public schools, were closed for the day. The stock exchange has declared a holiday until Monday. In all the churches special services were held during the day.

DUCAL COUPLE HAVE A SILVER WEDEING

Duke And Duchess of Genoa Celebrate Anniversary With Great Festivities.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Rome, April 17.—Genoa has been the scene of great festivities this week in celebration of the silver wedding anniversary of the Duke and Duchess of Genoa. The Duke is the only brother of the Dowager Queen of Italy, and an uncle, therefore, of King Victor Emmanuel III. The wedding celebration was attended by many members of the Italian royal family, among them the King and Queen, the Dowager Queen Margherita, the Duke and Duchess of Anjou, the Count of Turin and the Duke of Abruzzi. The Duke and Duchess of Genoa are very popular throughout the kingdom, because of their benevolence.

The Duke of Genoa has visited America several times in his capacity of an admiral of the Italian navy. He is a great admirer of the English and Americans, which is probably due to the fact that he received his education in England. When he was a child he was sent to school at Harrow and many amusing stories are related of his experiences there. In 1889 the Cortes decided to offer the crown of Spain to the Duke, who was then a young student at Harrow. When the news went abroad that the offer had been accepted all of the Duke's life in the school kicked at the Duke, with the laudable ambition of being able to say in after life that they had kicked a king. This was a little premature, for, unluckily, King Victor Emmanuel, fearing dynastic complications, compelled his nephew to reject the proffered crown. So the hapless Duke got all of the kicks and none of the glory.

The Duchess of Genoa is a Bavarian princess, daughter of the late Prince Adolph of Bavaria and sister of Prince Louis Ferdinand who has achieved wide fame as an ornithologist. The Duchess enjoys the distinction of being the only red-haired Princess of the blood in Europe. She is extremely fond of outdoor life and excels in fencing, skating, riding and swimming. The Duke and Duchess have their permanent home in Genoa, inhabiting the old castle of Chiavari, where the dukes of Genoa have dwelt for generations.

THIRTY ITALIANS DRIVEN FROM CLINTON IN TERROR

"Black Hand" Letters Sent The Mayor The Cause Of The Action Of The Enraged Citizens.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Bloomington, Ill., April 17.—Thirty Italians, who have been employed by the Illinois Central at Clinton, were driven from the town last night by a mob who intimidated them with a fusillade of shots from guns and revolvers. There has been much indignation against the Italians since Mayor Edmondson received a "blackhand" letter threatening his life. The Italians were charged with the authorship of the letter.

CHATAUQUA, KANSAS, BANK ROBBED BY BOLD THIEVES

Cashier And Leading Citizen Locked In Vault
While Cash Is Stolen.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Coffeeville, Kan., April 17.—Two robbers entered the Citizens' State bank at Chatauqua, 25 miles west of Coffeyville, at 9:30 this morning, locked Cashier Walterhouse and Del Baskin, a businessman, in a vault, secured three thousand dollars, and escaped to the hills across the line into Oklahoma with four horses in pursuit. Cashier Walterhouse stated positively that one of the robbers was William Tomant, aged 25, formerly of Chatauqua, who recently escaped jail in Nowata, Okla., where he was held on the charge of horse stealing.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Milwaukee, Wis., April 17.—The will of Charles Quarles dated May 15, 1907, and disposing of an estate valued at $80,000, was filed for probate this morning. Mrs. Quarles, the widow, is making executrix without bonds. Five thousand dollars each is left to Lewis and Carl Bullen, Henry Capron and Ethel Quarles and the remainder to the widow and her heirs. The estate consisted of $75,000 personal property and $5,000 real estate.

HEBREWS OBSERVE PASSOVER FEAST

Will Continue For Eight Days And Will Be Observed by Jews The World Over.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
New York, April 17.—Jewish people throughout the world are today celebrating the Hebrew Feast of Passover, or the Pesach. This festival, which is also known as the Feast of Unleavened Bread, was instituted to commemorate the departure of the Children of Israel from Egypt, under the leadership of Moses, where they had been held in bondage for upward of 400 years.

The reformed Jews, as well as the orthodox Jews, who adhere religiously to all the wonderful symbolism and ritual which make Jewish worship picturesque and beautiful, observe the Passover feast, which means more to the Jew than any other of his religious celebrations. The reformed Jews do not adhere so closely to all the symbolism of the celebration, but their observance differs only in that they are not so elaborate.

The feature of the purpose, for bread in the household of the orthodox Hebrews. Each year, as Passover approaches, thousands of pounds of matzohs are baked for the occasion, and it is estimated that in the upper east alone more than 10,000 matzohs are required for the poor families. The annual sale from the bakeries throughout the city is so large that it requires large moving vans to take them to the various points of distribution. This is not surprising when the fact is borne in mind that New York city contains more Jewish inhabitants than any other half dozen cities of the world combined.

The night ushering in the Passover festival is known as "Seder" night, and is made the occasion of a family gathering devoted to a special service around the supper table, which is decked out in a peculiar manner with matzohs and other accessories incidental to the feast. Gathered around the table, the "Hagadah" is read and recited.

The "Hagadah" contains a narrative of the deliverance of the Jews from their Egyptian bondage as set forth in the Bible, and is read by the head of the household, either in the original Hebrew or as an English translation. The other members of the family join in the responses and the singing of hymns of praise and thanksgiving to their Divine liberator.

The Passover feast continues for eight days, but only the first and last days are celebrated as holy days. In the large number of Hebrew synagogues in Greater New York, both reformed orthodox, services were held this morning and sermons appropriate to the occasion were preached.

COMMISSION HAS SOLE AUTHORITY

MAKE RULES TO GOVERN THEIR ACTIONS AND APPOINTMENTS

ABOLISH PART OF A RULE

In Which Word Immediately Appears Striking It Out—Battles Dispute as to Brown's Appointment

At a special session of the Fire and Police Commission last evening, Rule Five of the rules adopted by the board several years ago was amended so that the much disputed word "immediately" was dropped from the rule making it possible now to declare a candidate for position of fireman or policeman, eligible, if he has lived in Janesville for three years and doing away with the requirement he must have lived in Janesville for the three years immediately preceding his appointment.

The session was called to take action on the question of the eligibility of the appointment of Sam Brown as patrolman. The council took action on the matter officially at their last meeting and passed its salary claim with a string tied to it, providing he resign, and last night's session of the commission cut this string making his appointment a possibility under the law by removing the word "immediately" from the rule which questioned his appointment.

The authority for this action on the part of the commission can be found in the city charter itself where section 959, 42, of the statutes of 1898 provides for the formulating of these rules by the fire and police commission of cities of the second and third class "However incorporated," and also states that the rules are subject to repeal by the board if they see fit.

This should end the dispute that has arisen over the appointment of Brown. Brown was officially discharged by the commission and the Chief of Police notified that his dismissal was due to the fact that he had been appointed when not eligible. At the same time they notified the Chief that the rule which declared Brown ineligible had been modified, and that Brown's name was now on the list of applicants for the position of patrolman who could be appointed.

This places Brown back on the force as Chief George M. Appleby today appointed him to his position of patrolman and without doubt the commission will approve of the appointment. In taking this step the commission were entirely within their powers and had the backing, morally, of both newspapers and the greater majority of the citizens who had become disgusted with the council's action.

Sam Brown is a good officer and since his appointment, upon the retirement of former officer Hencke, has been a valuable man to the department. He is popular and has all the qualifications of making an excellent policeman and his appointment will be received with approval by the citizens generally.

ADMIT NEW MEMBERS TO GIRLS' SOCIETY

Philoxanian Society at the High School
Receives Added Membership

Yesterday afternoon at the high school eight new members were welcomed into the Philoxanian society. The number was comprised of the Misses Ruth Daily, Blanche Hayes, Ada Williams, Nina Long, Martha Lake, Amy Williams, Mae McGreggor and Adelaide Thiele. Complying with the rules of the society the girls' averages are all above 85. After the regular meeting a general social time was indulged in by all. Dainty refreshments were served, after which Miss Nellie Dawson extended a most cordial welcome to the new members, and Miss Mary Smith spoke on "Our Hopes and Expectations."

TO CONFER DEGREE ON SEVEN LADIES

Canton Janesville Will Reward Rebekah Lodge Members with Decorations of Chivalry.

Canton Janesville No. 9, Patriarchs Militant, will confer the Decoration of Chivalry on seven ladies during the course of a social season and dancing party to be held on April 21. The coveted jewels have already been received and are admired by all who have seen them. A diamond mounted in a raised six-pointed star on a gold field of star-rays serves as the pin and from this depends a gold-embroidered cross of white enamel, supporting a red heart and golden crown. On the reverse side the monogram of the Patriarchs Militant, the motto: "Be Just, merciful, honorable, and brave!" the date, and name of the recipient are engraved. Ladies of the Daughters of Rebekah are permitted to vote this decoration each year to two members for meritorious services, and thus far the local Canton has conferred it on sixteen. Those who are to receive it on the 24th are: Mrs. Lillian Mae Smith and Mrs. Ella Wright of America Rebekah Lodge No. 29; Mrs. Nancy E. Stanton, Mrs. Clara E. Clark, Mrs. Anna M. Pugh, and Mrs. Minnie Swift of Janesville Rebekah Lodge No. 17; and

KEEPING IN GOOD CONDITION.

One of the most important things a farmer does is to keep his buildings in good condition. And one of the simplest and easiest ways of doing it is to paint them. It's easier to make money by keeping your buildings up than to raise an extra hundred or so to the acre. Wm. Kegan, a farmer near New Valley, Wis., lately painted his house. It had always taken 12 gallons of mixed paint; and he didn't believe 7 gallons of Devco had-and-zinc would do a good job. But he used only 6 and took the 7th back to H. Toms, Richmond Center, Wis., the dealer who sold it. They were both surprised. A neighbor of Mr. Kegan used Devco lead-and-zinc paint on his house as a result. Devco lead-and-zinc is economy.

GIRL WHO SCREAMED WOULDN'T COMPLAIN

At Least That is the Way the Officers
Size up the Closed Carriage Mystery in Second Ward.

In response to a call from the corner of St. Mary's avenue and Hickey street last evening, Officers Brown and Morbeck visited the scene and investigated a report that a woman, screaming loudly for help, had been driven through that locality in a closed carriage by an employee and an ex-employee of a local hack line.

Those who heard the sounds declared that the party giving utterance to the screams was a certain woman named Wheelock, but when the officers subsequently made inquiries at her home she emphatically denied that she had been in the company of the two youths in question. Whatever may have been their original intentions, the young men are said to have released their prisoner and to have driven back to headquarters shortly after the uproar attracted attention. Finding that the party whom they believed could be positively identified as the one who did the screaming was unwilling to make any complaint, the patrolmen proceeded no further with the case and made no arrests.

The choir of the Presbyterian church are preparing to give an Easter musical program next Sunday morning at the hour of the usual service, and will be assisted by Nettie Booth Wegg, violinist, from Monroe. A silver collection will be taken and a fine program will be rendered. A. J. Wampler returned from a visit with relatives in Tomah, Wis., on Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Kariz returned Tuesday evening from a visit with their daughters in Rockford.

Russell Hartman arrived here last evening with a lady friend.

Mrs. James Barber and Misses L. L. Tocht, Phoebe Corleyon, Jennie Karney, and Ruth and Nellie Blair were pleasantly entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jay Roderick on Jordan Prairie last Thursday evening.

Don't forget the Easter dance this evening. All are cordially invited. The W. C. T. U. will meet Thursday, April 23d, with Mrs. Louise Laird at 2:30.

Mrs. Lulu Silver of Albany is the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ole Hartness.

The usual Easter program will be held at the M. E. church next Sunday morning at the usual hour. Music and exercises in keeping with the occasion will be given. In the evening Rev. Foster will preach from the text, "Scriptural Reasoning in the Resurrection."

Mrs. Harriet Steere of Great Falls, Montana, is in Mayo brothers' hospital, Rochester, Minn., where she recently underwent an operation. In company with Mr. Steere she had started for Brodhead on account of her ill health when they were induced to go by way of Rochester to consult these eminent specialists. As soon as Mrs. Steere is able they will come to Brodhead.

The theme for the sermon at the Congregational church next Sunday morning by Rev. J. Lloyd Smith will be "Man's Share in the Resurrection."

ECONOMY

Economy in clothes buying does not mean "how cheap"—cheapness begets deception.

It means material of lasting quality—trimmings in keeping with tailoring that is trustworthy.

FIT

The crowning glory of a suit of clothes is a good, comfortable fit. The highest priced merchant tailors "fall down" occasionally and so do I, but with me the exception proves the rule. In case I do fall down I will make good, as I guarantee a perfect fit in every instance.

Suits $15.00 to $35.00.

NO TOWN KNOCKERS.

How Coryville Got Rid of a Bunch of Unprogressives.

THE YOUNG MEN ORGANIZED.

And the Croaking Critics Couldn't Stand the Ordeal of Initiation Into the Mysterious Order of the G. B.'s. A Story of Masks and Spades.

There was something doing in Coryville. The G. B.'s were getting busy. Who were the G. B.'s? Oh, just follow this little story and find out!

For many years Coryville had on hand an oversupply of citizens whose chief activity had to do with knocking the town. These fellows were but a small group, only four or five, but they did harm. Half a dozen mag-gots can spoil the best cheese ever made. So these town knockers, these croaking critics, were slowly undermining the good reputation of Coryville by their incessant chorus of defama-tion. Nothing suited them. They opposed every movement for the good of the town. They croaked and knock-ed and clamored and hummed and whined anybody suggesting a street im-provement, a new building, the organiza-tion of a business men's club or anything of the sort.

Finally the G. B.'s were organized. Of course they did not take the knock-ers' bunch into their confidence. There was a reason and a good one for not letting the knockers know. The G. B.'s were organized in secret. The initial meeting was held in an old, abandoned schoolhouse half a mile out of town. Gripe and passwords and other secret signs were adopted. Even a mystic apron was devised, but it was not to be worn where anyone usually around town. It was to be tied around the head just below the eyes, thus serving as a mask.

The G. B.'s had been in existence only a month or so, holding their meet-ings every Friday night in the old schoolhouse, when one of the knockers discovered that such a society had been formed. He straightway notified his brother knockers. The group met in a grocery store.

"Seems to be something mighty mys-terious about it," remarked the chief knocker.

"Yes; can't imagine what they're up to," said another. "The society seems to have thirty or forty members, and most of them are the younger element around town, young business men."

"How did you find that out?" asked knocker No. 3.

"Why, one of the members told me," replied the other.

All of which was quite true. It was true also that this member had vio-lated no rule of the G. B.'s. He had been detailed to acquaint the knockers with the primary facts concerning the society. Immediately the knocker in chief had expressed a desire to at-tend a meeting. He was cordially in-vited along with his brother knockers.

When the five town knockers filed into the old schoolhouse at the regular Friday night meeting they found a most startling assemblage. About forty men, with long white aprons like masks concealing their faces and reaching far below their shoulders, were standing around the walls of the chamber, which contained no seats. Every fifth man carried a blazing torchlight. Many of the others carried picks, spades and shovels.

The supreme sashem of the G. B.'s advanced to the group of visitors and asked them solemnly if they desired to be initiated into the order. They re-plied that they did. How can a man knock unless he is in the inside? The chief knocker laughed scornfully as he assented to the initiation.

"The ordeal is severe," said the su-preme sashem, "but if you survive it you are our brethren. Advance, G. B.'s!"

Fifteen of the masked figures ad-vanced, carrying stout cords. They quickly bound the hands of the knock-ers behind them and tied the whole group together with a rope. Then the torch bearers came forward, the knock-ers were led outside, the other G. B.'s followed, and the entire party stopped on the open space back of the school-house.

Without a word the men with picks began to dig. The shovellers began to shovel, while the torch bearers held their lights high above the group. Af-ter the digging was well under way the G. B.'s started up a dirge-like song in doleful voices. Altogether it was an uncanny scene.

"What-what are you fellows up to now?" gasped the chief knocker.

"Gentlemen, unmask!" commanded the supreme sashem. All the G. B.'s unmasked, revealing the fact that they were the leading young men of Coryville. Then the supreme sashem, who happened to own the grocery store in which the knockers chiefly knocked, addressed the candidates for initiation:

"We are the Grand Buriers. We are digging your graves. We have reach-ed the conclusion that a few first class funerals are needed in the interest of Coryville, and we have selected you gentlemen for the honor of furnishing the raw material. For years you have knocked and blocked every movement for the good of our town, and we have decided that Coryville can get along without you. However, we are going to give you a chance. If you will promise solemnly to boost and not to knock hereafter, you may take your own time and do natural death. But always remember that the Grand Bur-ers have the tools and that we can dig."

Coryville has no knockers now.

HERN JOYCE.

COULDN'T DODGE THESE TAXES.

Births, Marriages and Deaths Once Source of English Revenue.

Pleased with his morning's work—he had sworn off no less than $340,000 in taxes—the capitalist leaned back in his chair, lighted a cigar and talked agreeably.

"In the past," he said, "governments were wiser. They levied taxes that could not be sworn off. There was, for instance, the English birth tax of the seventeenth century. A laborer paid two shillings as birth tax; a duke paid £30. You couldn't get round it. Burials were taxed, according to the station of the dead, from a shilling to £25. That, too, could not be dodged.

"Marriages were taxed. A duke, to marry, paid £50; a common person, like yourself, paid half a crown. "In those days you paid a tax on every servant, on your dog, on every horse, on your carriage, your hearth, your windows, watches, clocks, wigs, hair powder, plate, ribbons, coal, gauze and candles."

The Philosophy of It.

"I talked with a rich man do yuther day," said Brother Dickey, "an' got some information fum him."

"That wasn't strange, was it?"

"Yes, suh, kaze ez a rule, dey don't stop fer talk wid de po' man—dat is, not fer long."

"Well, what came of it?"

"Well, suh, I tol' him dat he orter give ter de po' ef he would git treasure in heaven an' he say he done dat once 'pon a time; dat he g'n mightly sigh al he had ter de po' an' de vo'y next time he meet him in de big road de po' vuz dress in a silk hat an' walkin' cane, likewise standin' collar, an' what you reckon he tol' dat rich man?"

"You tell it."

"'Git outter my way, dar! Gimme do middle or de road or I'll frail you ter a frazzle wid dis yer walkin' stick!'"

"BACK NUMBERS"

The Sharples Tubular Separator Bowl has revolutionized cream separators—made "Back Numbers" of all competitive machines. The Sharples Tubular Separator bowl has a small diameter—all others have large diameters. This small diameter bowl is protected by patents—other manufacturers cannot make or imitate it. It is light—others heavy. Sharples Dairy Tubular bowls have no contraptions inside—all others have. They are guaranteed to skim cleaner than bowls filled with cones, discs, vanes or other inside parts—produce better, sweeter, frothless cream—less loss, less work—need fewer repairs. They are far ahead of all other separator bowls.

The Sharples Tubular bowl is not differently from all others. It is hung from a single ball bearing—all others are set on top of a double or triple bearing spindle—will wobble and bind—because top heavy. The Sharples Tubular bowl is set right. The new milk enters the Sharples Tubular bowl at the bottom—all others are fed from the top. The Sharples Tubular bowl does not mix the whole milk with the partly skimmed milk—permits the supply can to set low—saves time—power—your back. The Sharples Tubular bowl cer-tainly has made great changes—all to the advantage of the farmer and dairymen. It has gone a long way ahead of other separator bowls—much ahead of the disadvantage of the other fellows, because they still make bowls that are "Back Numbers."

OUR CLAIM FOR THE SHARPLES TUBULAR.

First.—It skims closer, under all conditions, than disc, cone, vane, wing or any "bucket bowl" machines.

Second.—It produces a perfectly smooth, frothless cream of any desired density—an impossibility with the disc, cone, vane, wing or any other "bucket bowl" construction.

Third.—Cream thus obtained will yield more butter from the same amount of milk, than it is possible to secure by using disc, cone, vane, wing or any other "bucket bowl" machines.

Fourth.—It runs at its full capacity with two-thirds, or less, of the power required for any "bucket bowl" machine.

Fifth.—It has the most convenient, durable and desirable arrangement of running parts.

Sixth.—The few supply can does away with top heaviness, common in other style machines, and can be filled without climbing a chair or stop ladder. The milk in the supply can is always in sight.

Seventh.—Absolute safety from accidents caused by exposed gears or by top heavy bowls, filled with loose parts, jumping from frames.

Eighth.—The three-piece Tubular bowl can be thoroughly washed in one to three minutes.

Ninth.—It uses less oil—requires fewer repairs—than any other separator made.

Tenth.—We guarantee that it will get enough more cream under like conditions, than any other machine, to pay at least 10 per cent interest on its entire cost.

Write today for our little booklet. It's very interesting and instructive, or better still, call and see this machine when in Janesville.

Exit Stale Tobacco Smell.

Lavender salts are used in our home to freshen the air of the living room, where smoking is occasionally indulged in. Select a large mouthed bottle—a stick candy jar which will hold a quart is just the thing. In this place one pint of pure (not household) ammonia, add two ounces of oil of lavender and then fill the bottle with carbonated ammonia blocks. When using shake the bottle, remove the stopper and leave for half an hour. The odor is peculiarly invigorating and not at all overpowering if not too close a sniff of the jar is taken.—Good Housekeeping.

Stomach Self-Protecting.

The reason why the stomach and in-testines do not digest themselves was once thought by Wehland, a German experimenter, to be that they defend themselves by anti-enzymes, or anti-forms. Dr. Nander Klug of Budapest now reports these anti-forms not to be found, but that the mucus present in the lumen half of the gastric mucosa mombiane resists the diges-tive action of the trypsin and the gas-tric juice. The digestive organs, there-fore, protect themselves by the mucus film, secret.

Not from the Scriptures.

The quotation: "God tempereth the wind to the shorn lamb," is one which very often leads people to believe it is to be found in the Scriptures. As a matter of fact it appears first in English in Sterne's "Sentimental Jour-ney." It is generally supposed that Sterne took this from an old French proverb. Another rendering of this is to be found in Herbert's "Jacula Pre-dicantia," where it takes the form: "To close-shorn sheep God gives wind to measure."

THE FUTURE CZAR OF RUSSIA.

Alexis Nicolaevitch, the 4-year-old boy who is heir to the unstable throne of Russia, leads a very simple life. He is a striking handsome boy and was born at Peterhof in July, 1901.

Already he has done one good deed, which he never in mind to mark his reign with a single reform, for in honor of his advent the lament, terrible survival of barbaric Russia, was abol-ished throughout the empire by his grateful father.

The man-child who came to the sup-port and perhaps to the rescue of the luckless czar at a critical time is an extremely intelligent and charming child. He was born after three grand duchesses had come into the world, and when a male heir was de-spaired of. "The imperial but sonless pair had undertaken in despair a pil-grimage to the monastery of St. Ser-aphim, in central Russia. Then the holy came, to lighten, from the dy-nastic point of view at least, the dark-est hour in Russian history, and all

Russia, from its ruler down, is sure that the saint worked the miracle.

Little Grand Duke Alexis has be-come very popular with the people over whom he will rule as czar some day. If nothing happens to prevent, Alexis's latest picture was eagerly bought and stories of his high spir-its and charming ways are told and heard with delight.

When the members of the duma were invited to Tsarskoe-Selo on Feb-ruary 26 to see the czar the little czarvitch was brought out and man-ifested an uncontrollable desire to romp with the sedate statesmen. So completely did he capture their hearts that at the luncheon that fol-lowed the audience he was teased and cheered twice with the greatest en-thusiasm, while the health of the czar and czarina was drunk once solemnly as a loyal duty.

Little Alexis is the first czarvitch of Russia in centuries to be born while his father was a sovereign monarch. Before he is 18 he will have the bur-den of 22 titles of honor to struggle under, and the first of these, that of honorary colonel of the Finland guards was conferred upon him before he was 24 hours old. Last July, at the age of 2 years and 7 months, he was ap-pointed, in the midst of imposing cere-mony, Grand Hetman of all the Cas-sacks, and when he is 7 he will be breveted admiral of the navy. Now, at 4 years of age, his education has begun. Thought shorter, his study years are as fixed and as immovable as the recitations of catechisms. The future of this boy brings looks dark in-deed, but he appears a jolly little fel-low, who, it is said, invariably brings his prayers to a close with a loud hurrah. All rumors of poison have been of no avail, since he points out that the soldiers always greet his father with a hurrah, and that, after all, the al-mighty is a more important personage than even his papa.

But while the "Little Czar's" proper training is a matter of much care to his mother, his personal safety and that of her four daughters is of much deeper concern to her. It has been said, often to her children and is a mother in the true sense of the word, is on the verge of losing her mind through constant fear for her children's lives.

Again and again have anarchist plots been mentioned and only recently, through the discovery of a servant, 17 bombs, a veritable network of the royal apartments, all connected with elec-tric wires waiting only until the fam-ily should retire to exterminate the en-tire ruling family. Fortunately they were discovered in time.

The recent assassination of Dom Car-los of Portugal and the crown prince while driving with Queen Amelia and their young son and brother, has in-dicated to the fears of the czarina, since with this unhappy tragedy occurred, who believed always that an attempt would not be made upon the life of the czar while he was in her company or that of their children. Especially are her fears aroused for the czarvitch, and aside from her personal watchful-ness all the intricate machinery of the royal guards is in constant motion to see to it that no harm shall come to the future ruler of all the Russians.

LIVELY TIMES AHEAD.

New Servant (to butler)—I wonder how I shall get on here?

Butler—Well, you look the sort of gal as 'll get on with the master all right, but not with the missus.

A MAN WHO IS NEEDED

"While in Milwaukee a day or two since, State Senator John M. Whitehead of Janesville was asked concerning his intentions as to again becoming a candidate for the senate. His reply was characteristically frank:

"I have received many letters urging me to run, he said, but have not made up my mind yet. I will do so soon, however, as, if I am to be a candidate, it is only fair to others that I should announce myself."

"While it has not been the practice of the Sentinel to express opinions regarding local candidates for office in advance of nominations, exceptional considerations are presented in the case of Senator Whitehead.

"Whatever may be the sentiment in the Rock county constituency with respect to his return to the upper house of the legislature—and it is safe to conjecture that a large majority are in favor of it—the state at large has an interest in the subject, and throughout Wisconsin there is no doubt that a strong desire exists that his services be continued.

"Mr. Whitehead is a man whose qualities of sound judgment, fair-mindedness and wide experience can ill be spared from the senate. During the six seasons he has been a member of that body, beginning in 1897, he has made a record, which few if any men can boast. And Senator Whitehead does not boast about it. He is not that kind. But his influence has been recognized as one of great good for the state, and now in the ripeness of his experience and at the height of his powers his withdrawal would be marked as a distinct loss to the public.

"To one who has served continuously for eleven years in the same legislative office there is in one sense little additional honor to be gained by another election. Continued service under such conditions naturally involves a considerable sacrifice of private interest.

"There are thousands of citizens, however, who will hope that the senator will forego personal considerations and consent to stand for another term.

"Mr. Whitehead is one of the four veterans of the present senate, the others being Messrs. Kocher and Munson, whose periods of service have been coincident with Mr. Whitehead and Senator Stout, whose first election antedates his own by two years.

"It is a fact perhaps not generally known, but this extent of experience has been surpassed in few instances in the history of the state senate. The case of Saterlee Clark of Dodge county stands out as remarkable, covering eleven consecutive sessions beginning in 1862, but that was in the days when the legislature met annually. Romanzo Davis of Dane served in eight annual sessions beginning in 1870. Thomas R. Hudd sat in nine sessions, but not in consecutive years and he represented different constituencies, first Outagamie and then Brown county.

"Lymon Morgan of Ozaukee served in ten, with an interval between 1872 and 1873, and an equal number are credited to Thomas B. Scott of Wood, continuously between 1873 and 1882. In later years the long tenures were those of Kennedy of Outagamie and McMillen of Jackson, each of whom served in six biennial sessions.

and how he has used those opportunities his record shows. In the last decade no individual imprint has been stamped more clearly on Wisconsin legislation, in behalf of equal rights and justice.

"From the taxation reforms of ten years ago to the recent measures for the regulation of corporations, his great influence has been on the side of progress and sanity. Using always above factionalism and personalities he has shown himself a big man in every way. The state needs him, and more of his broad gauged kind."

This flattering endorsement of State Senator John M. Whitehead, is from the Milwaukee Sentinel. It is a compliment which the many friends of Senator Whitehead in Rock county will appreciate.

The people of the county recognize the fact that they have long been honored by the services of one of the strongest and best men in the state, and they find pleasure in honoring him by hearty support.

The record of this man, as a public servant, is a better eulogy than any written testimonial, and with this record the people are gratified.

Every day the question is asked, will the senator be a candidate to succeed himself. While the Gazette is not authorized to say, the paper believes that he may be induced to accept the office for another term.

The sacrifice to business, which the state demands, is a consideration sometimes overlooked, but the state needs the services of Senator Whitehead, and it is hoped that he will consent to continue to serve the people in the senate.

THE NATION'S FORCES

There are four great forces which contribute to prosperity. They are known as financial, commercial, industrial and agricultural. Of these forces only the latter is now in normal condition, and for the first time in the history of the country the statement is discredited, that "when the farmer is prosperous times are good and everything else is prosperous."

The financial world has passed through a period of revolution, from which it has only partially recovered. The scars remaining are numerous, and the sores only partially healed. While the banks are supplied with money for business demands, the demands are light. Securities have shrunk in value beyond recognition and a great army of investors are heavy losers.

The commercial world, for the past six months, has been largely engaged in liquidation, and buying from hand to mouth has been adopted as the universal policy.

Under these conditions the world of industry has been at a standstill, and as a result thousands of workmen find themselves out of employment. Railroads are idle and the best of them only partially employed. The work of extensions and of betterments has been abandoned and the only normal thing about the situation is the collecting of taxes, which in most cases are in excess of last year, and for this reason very gratifying to modern reformers.

The blight of regulation shadows everything but the product of the soil, and this escapes because the agitator has not yet discovered a plan to dwarf the work of an all-wise providence, which long ago provided for good-time and harvest.

The culmination of disturbances, which resulted in a panic last fall, was preceded by a feeling of foreboding, for the fact was recognized by observing people that the nation could not long maintain the rapid pace at which it was traveling.

The collapse came, and after six months of depression, effects are still painfully apparent. The bright side of the situation is found in the fact agriculture has been practically immune, so that one of the four great forces is intact today, as it has been throughout the period of loss and disturbance.

The crops of 1907 totaled a valuation of more than $7,000,000,000 and the outlook for 1908 is very promising. These products of the soil represent new wealth, and with the steady prices which have been maintained, are an asset of standard value possessed by no other class of property.

Merchandise shrinks in value, stocks and bonds shrivel up and become unmarketable, but cereals are as firm and reliable as gold.

Good Friday

It was on this day my Saviour died—that He suffered on the tree; Do you ask the reason why it was for you and me?

His Father sent Him to this earth of wickedness and sin, When His mission here was done to heaven He went again.

While He walked the paths below His heart was sad and sore, The men that He came down to save they grieved Him more and more, Until at last betrayed by one they brought Him to the tree.

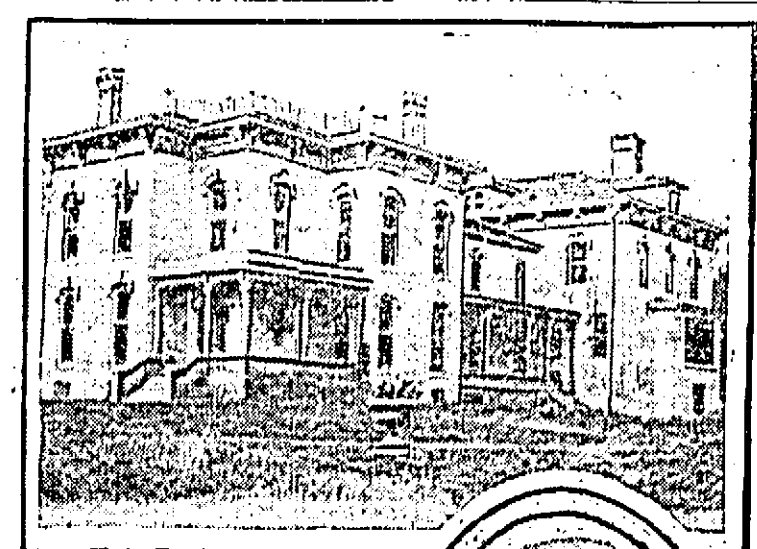

And there they nailed Him on the cross a victim for you and me.

While upon the cross He hung to heaven His eyes He raised, And asked His heavenly Father there the sinners to forgive.

"Forgive them, heavenly Father," He cried, "They know not it is me, They do not know the Son of God they have nailed upon the tree."

When upon the cross He died a dreadful scene took place— Darkness covered all around, the sun it hid its face, The earth it shook and trembled, the temple rent in twain, For to upon the cross the Son of God was slain.

IOWA'S UNIQUE PHILANTHROPIST

Des Moines, Iowa, April 15.—When Abraham Slininger, Iowa's unique philanthropist, gave his palatial home at Waverly to the Catholic Sisters for a hospital and himself retired to his woodshed to live he attracted considerable attention.

He is now said to be traveling over the country incognito seeking opportunity to bestow wealth where he believes it will do good to humanity. Mr. Slininger is a born Jew, but he does not profess the Jewish or any other faith. He has given hundreds of thousands of dollars to hospitals, including those in Chicago, Milwaukee, Duluth, Omaha, Cedar Rapids and other places.

He has strange conditions attached to his gifts. He is a bachelor, largely because he has little faith in women, and he requires it written in the agreement that the institutions to which he gives shall have no women on the board of directors. He also requires that no person be admitted because of their religious belief and further that inmates of hospitals and old people's homes, to which he has donated large amounts of money, be not requested to attend services. He says this should be left to their own desires and that they should not be placed in a position to go rather than refuse when it would only annoy them.

M. CHARCOT AND HIS MOTOR SLED.

On August 1 next Dr. Jean Charcot, the well known explorer, is going to set out on another expedition to discover the south pole. Dr. Charcot will depend very largely upon his new motor sled device for accomplishing the distance. He has been experimenting with this in the Alps for some time past, and experiments prove it to be thoroughly effective.

Dr. Charcot will take provisions enough to last two years, and expects to reach the south pole and get back during that time.

How Lord Kelvin Saved His Neck.

The late Lord Kelvin, when he was deep in some abstract problem, was very absent-minded and unpunctual. So much so, that his parrot used always to cry out: "Late against Late again!" when the scientist came in to his meals. He never gave himself time to catch trains, and for many years persisted in jumping into trains while they were in motion—to the great risk of his limbs. His friends declared that the ice accident which landed him was a blessing in disguise, for it saved his neck.

"No Gulf of Mute Space."

The thousand soft voices of the earth have truly found their way to me—the small rustle in tufts of grass, the silky swish of leaves, the buzz of insects, the hum of bees in blossoms. I have plucked, the flutter of a bird's wings after his bath, and the slender rippling vibration of water running over pebbles. Once having been felt, these loved voices rustle, buzz, hum, flutter and ripple in my thought forever, an undying part of happy memories.—From Helen Keller's "Sense and Sensibility" in Century.

As She Understood It. We were talking about honors, and I heard the story about Sir Lawrence Alma Tadema, R. A., when he was knighted, says a writer in the London Tatler.

"Oh," said a lady friend, "dear Sir Lawrence, I am so glad. I suppose, now that you have been knighted, you'll give up painting and live like a gentleman?"

Mr. Slininger came to Iowa a poor man and made his money in timber and later in banking. He defies any man to point where he ever received one penny dishonestly. But he says the joy of life is giving and he will never be happy till he is poor again. He distributes his gifts among all creeds, but he requires impartiality in the use of his money. Besides living in his woodshed, he wears coarse clothes, costing about $15 per suit, and lives on the humblest fare. He especially favors kindness to old people. He is genial and brilliant. But he says wealth is a curse and is a burden to the man who would enter heaven.

ASSESSMENTS OF COMMITTEE BAD

RIVERVIEW PARK SUITS IN THE CIRCUIT COURT.

JUDGE GRIMM'S DECISION

Sets Aside the Entire Assessment Because Statutory Provisions Were Not Followed.

Judge Grimm this afternoon, in the circuit court, decided the suit of P. W. Hahn versus the city of Janesville relative to the damages assessed on his property during the grading of 1907, in favor of the plaintiff. The court held that the entire assessment was void because the statutory provisions were not followed. The theory that the committee making the assessment followed the plan of imposing the entire cost of grading on the property for the purpose of equally spreading the cost of the work upon the adjoining property and not for the purpose of fixing the actual benefits or damages sustained by each parcel as required by law. The assessment committee was criticized for their methods in determining the damages and costs and a new assessment was ordered. The committee whose work was criticized was composed of J. E. Huthelshon, C. V. Korh, W. H. Morrill, J. Sheridan and J. Dullin. There were originally ten claims filed against the city for damages. Of these several have settled for a consideration and it is possible that the decision in the Hahn suit will only affect three who have alleged damages to property by the grading on Wheeler, Garfield, Carrington, Vista Avenue and Logan street in the Riverview Park district. The reassessment must be with respect to the benefits and damages to all the property and may result in the cost of the grading work being thrown upon the city if the damages exceed the benefits derived and may even result in the city's paying the claimants cash in excess of the cost of the actual work.

KING, COWLES & FIFIELD

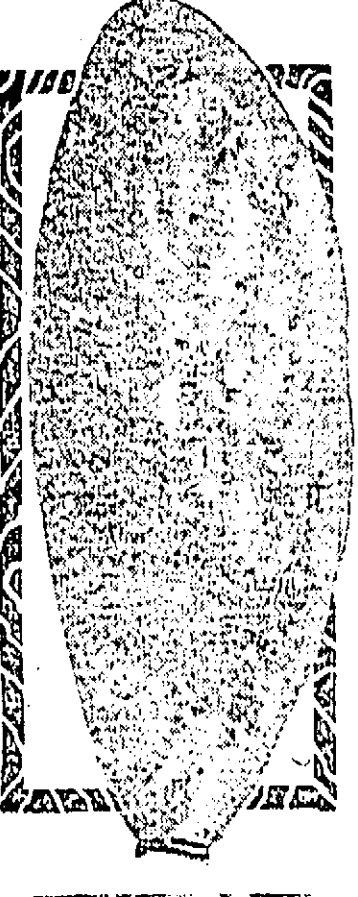

GERMANY'S FIRST DREADNOUGHT

(Drawn by Norman Willsen for the Illustrated London News.)
The launching of the "Bayern" which replaces the "Thyssen," marks a new era in the Kaiser's navy. The vessel has a displacement of 17,350 tons and her minimum speed is to be 19 knots. Her crew will number 556, including 27 officers. She will carry ten 11-inch guns and the cost of her construction, including the trial runs will be over $5,000,000. This ship was constructed in order to cope with the English "Dreadnought" and the American war ships of this type now under construction.

LUTHER BURBANK AND HIS SPINELESS CACTUS.

Luther Burbank's latest creation in vegetable life is his spineless cactus. Burbank has been experimenting quietly for years, but only recently has he perfected this plant. Horticultural authorities are discussing with lively differences in opinion, the actual utility importance of Luther Burbank's recent production of a spineless cactus. One California physician, Dr. Landolt, of Los Angeles, is reported as having tried the experiment of living and working two weeks on a diet consisting almost exclusively of the new plant. He felt well, gained half a pound in weight, and celebrated the end of the experimental fortnight by giving a cactus dinner to a party of brother physicians. The soup was of cactus and celery, followed by an omelet of cactus and green peppers. Fried cactus came next, then a salad of lettuce with cactus fruit, shreds of cactus fruit, and a drink made of cactus juice completed the remarkable menu. All this is suggestive as to what may be done in a cactus-growing region when ordinary supplies run low. The main interest of the situation lies, however, more in its relation to the food of four-footed folk. Some agricultural authorities see in this new possibility of producing a cactus minus armor the promise of an additional forage crop to fill the present painful lack in the desert regions. Others believe that the cactus disarmed, so to speak, would in those regions where it is most needed, be promptly destroyed by hungry animals, and the result would be its own disappearance. It is an interesting question, but it probably cannot be settled by academic discussion. Practical experiment alone can demonstrate whether the ingenuity of Santa Rosa has actually increased the world's food resources or only "done a stunt" in fancy horticulture. The great possibility of the cactus as a food supply lies chiefly in its ability to thrive in arid lands where other vegetable life dies through lack of sufficient moisture. —Saxton.

Burbank's Santa Rosa experiment has not indeed wholly solved the problem, but he has proved the wizard's button and other people must do the rest.

No Harmony in Him.
Some of the guests at a dinner party in New York not long ago were referring to the influence of an independent official toward increasing the party vote at the approaching election. Said one of the women present:
"Really, I am not surprised that Mayor Blank's course has failed to secure perfect harmony. For a long time I have sat near him in church and heard him, Sunday after Sunday, sing the hymns with vigor and great self-satisfaction to a tune entirely his own. The fact that the tune was not the right one never seemed to worry him in the least."—Sunday Magazine.

How She Kept Young.
Some one once asked a woman how it was she kept her youth so wonderfully. Her hair was snowy white, she was 80 years old and her energy was waning, but she never impressed one with the idea of age, for her heart was still young in sympathy and interests. And this was her answer: "I know how to forget disagreeable things. I tried to master the art of saying pleasant things. I did not expect too much of my friends. I kept my nervous well in hand, and did not allow them to bore other people. I tried to find any work that came to hand congenial."—Woman.

Woman's Wiles.
"Yes," confided Mrs. A., "I find it very profitable to give my husband a dressing down occasionally. I gave him one to-day."
"But how is it profitable?" queried Mrs. Z.
"Why, he generally gives me a dressing up."
"Dressing up?"
"Yes; to get me in good humor again he promises me a new coat, a new set of furs and a new hat."

Faults of Friends.
Don't flatter yourselves that friendship authorizes you to say disagreeable things to your intimates. On the contrary, the nearer you come into relation with a person, the more necessary do tact and courtesy become. Except in cases of necessity, which are rare, leave your friend to learn unpleasant truths from his enemies; they are ready enough to tell them.—Oliver Wendell Holmes.

Be Slow in Judgment.
Climate determines every phase of human existence and makes the habits of all nations. Be charitable, then, to the "fallings" of the whole world. —Went how. Is it results:

UNION SQUARE, NEW YORK CITY. SCENE OF THE SOCIALIST MASS MEETING. ROBERT HUNTER AND MRS. HUNTER, WHO ARE ACTIVE IN BEHALF OF SOCIALISTIC REFORMS.

New York, April 17.—The gathering in Union square, New York City, last Saturday of 100,000 of New York's unemployed marked an incident unique in New York city's history. Under the leadership of socialistic and anarchistic newspapers the unemployed marched to show their condition of want to "the dirty rich of Wall street." Undoubtedly the leaders had no intention of a riotous movement developing, but, like many loosely constructed organizations the masses exceeded their rights as citizens and when the police interfered they became sullen and at the last moment one crazed Russian named Goldstein attempted to hurl a home-made bomb at the police. The fuse ignited too soon and he was fatally injured and a man standing next to him was instantly killed. Had the bomb exploded however, an hour earlier it is thought that a riot greater than the Haymarket riot of Chicago would have followed and hundreds might have been killed.

Feel Need of Pockets.
A recruiting officer in Kansas City says the most annoying thing about navy life is the absence of trousers pockets. Indeed, this is probably the cause of many desertions from the navy. What young American wants to carry a chatelaine bag when he goes shopping?

Daily Thought.
Good nature is worth more than knowledge, more than money, to the person who possesses it, and certainly to everybody who dwells with them, in so far as more happiness is concerned.—Henry Ward Beecher. —Read the want ads.

A Watch for the Blind.
The blind now have a watch on which the hours are indicated by movable buttons on rubber upon the dial. The wearer finds the time by passing his hand over the dial and finds the button indicating the hour depressed. A strong minute hand shows the minutes.

A Case of Arbitration.
A rat and a weasel found an egg. They couldn't decide who should have it, so they arbitrated. A cat was the arbitrator. The cat awarded the egg to the rat. The rat ate the egg. The cat promptly ate the rat. The cat believes in arbitration; the rat doesn't.—Judge's Library.

Eternal Vigilance.
Various are the devices for the defense and security of cities, as pallades, walls, ditches and other such kinds of fortification, all of which are the results of the labors of the hand and maintained at great expense. But there is one common bulwark which men of prudence possess within themselves—the protection and guard of all people, especially of free states, against the attacks of tyrants. What is this? Distrust.—Demosthenes (381-322 B. C.)

NIEL'S EBBESEN HANSEN IN HIS AGRICULTURAL EXPERIMENT STATION.

What Luther Burbank is to the highly cultivated vegetation of California Professor Hansen is to the rugged North. While the genius of Santa Rosa has been devoting his life to the preparation of new fruits, new vegetables and new flowers, Professor Hansen has likewise devoted his life to developing hardier fruits and grains which will stand the heavy winters of the North and Northwest. Take for example the strawberry, which has never been able to be produced as a self-perpetuating crop in the North. He has now produced a strawberry which will not be killed out even at the low temperature of 10 degrees below zero. Perhaps the most remarkable work has been with the alfalfa. This grain readily grows in the Northwest during the summer months, but invariably freezes out in the winter. Professor Hansen has traveled in Siberia studying the grains of this cold north and there discovered three distinct varieties of alfalfa which were harder than the grain now grown in our own Northwest. He has crossed these grains and after years of study and experiment has produced an alfalfa which frosts will not kill. Professor Hansen's personality is quite as remarkable as Burbank's. He has made discoveries and inventions which might easily have made him worth millions, yet he is laboring with no thought of reward and devoting himself to the advancement of the territory in which he is located. Professor Hansen is head of the horticulture and forestry department of the South Dakota agricultural experiment station, which is connected with the South Dakota State College of Agriculture and Mechanical Art at Brookings, S. D. Professor Hansen was born near Lille, Denmark, 42 years ago.

MISTAKEN IN THEIR JUDGMENT.

Prohibition Delegates Unable to Claim Stranger as Brother.

"You cannot always tell from the looks of a man what his business is," said a Chicago drummer. "Many of the jolliest looking men are undertakers, while many of the professional clowns are dyspeptic looking. I was a witness to a rather amusing experience of this kind one time in Kansas. The train was pretty well crowded and I sat down opposite a party of three men, who afterward turned out to be prohibition candidates to some kind of a convention. At a little station along the way a tall, clerical looking old gentleman got on the train and, seeing the only available seat in one of the double ones occupied by the three delegates, sat down there. As they passed on the four engaged in conversation, the delegates evidently taking him for a brother member. Several remarks were passed regarding the prohibition work and the liquor traffic, and it was a noticeable fact that the new arrival did not warm up to the subject as much as some of the others. Finally one of the trio touched him on the shoulder and said: "Brother, are you truly making the good fight?" "Yes," replied the ministerial looking man, "and the bad ones, too. I'm a whisky salesman."

Not His Job.

At Atlantic City a woman bathed not beyond her depth and was struggling helplessly in the water. A boat was soon put out and just as the man was reaching over to grasp the lady a sassy wave separated her from her wig, whereupon she instantly cried: "Oh, save my hair! Save my hair!" "Madam," responded the guard with dignity, "I may be a life saver, but I am not a hair restorer."

TWO OF THE LATEST DEVICES IN THE ELECTRIC APPLIANCES.

Now inventions for the application of electricity to domestic purposes beneath the faucet and heats the water always interesting. Above picture shows the instantaneous water so that during the summer months heater which the General Electric Co. has the advantage of hot water company of New York has just put continually. The electric shaving on the market and the electrically heated mug is bound to be popular with the heated shaving mug. There is no men, for it is convenient, always instantaneous heater for the bath ready and keeps the shaving mug room quite so convenient as this electric heater.

Astral Color Works Cure.

Learn your astral color, and wear it, is the advice of those who know what they are talking about, and health and happiness will result. One woman declares that it will have to be becoming, or the cure for illness will be worse than the disease, and happiness can on no account result unless it is.

The Heroic Life.

Know that "Impossible," where truth and mercy and the everlasting voice of nature order, has no place in the brave man's dictionary. "That when all men have said "Impossible," and tumbled noisily elsewhere, and thou alone art left, then first thy name and possibility have come. It is for thee now; do thou that, and ask no man's counsel, but thy own only and God's.—Thomas Carlyle.

Showing Value of Peat.

There is a strong organization at work in this country developing the use of peat as fuel. It is now utilizing many acres of swamp lands which are being reclaimed for agricultural purposes. The by-products of the industry are very promising.

Napoleon's Cynicism.

"What is the difference between a mirror and a woman?" Napoleon asked Mme. de Stael. "You give it up, I see. Learn, then, that a mirror always reflects; a woman, never."

To Stop Flow of Blood.

To stop the flow of blood hind the wound with colic and brown sugar pressed on like that or with the dust of tea. When the blood ceases to flow apply laudanum.

FOOTVILLE

Footville, April 16.—This community was gripped to hear of the death of Chas. H. Robinson, Sunday, April 12, at Milwaukee. Mr. Robinson has been in poor health for several years, and four weeks ago he went to the Sacred Heart Sanitarium, Milwaukee, in hopes of getting help. Mr. Robinson was born November, 1850, in Richmond, Wis. He was united in marriage to Miss Alice Wilcox of Harmsworth, Dec. 1872. Three children were born to them, but died in their childhood. A year and a half ago Mrs. Robinson preceded him to the great beyond. Mr. Robinson was a kind and generous friend making friends wherever he went and will be greatly missed in this neighborhood. He leaves to mourn his death three brothers, Richard of the state of Washington, Herbert of Iowa and Robert of Edgerton, Minn., who was with him when he died and the funeral, one able to be present at the funeral, and other relatives. The funeral was held from his late home Wednesday afternoon, the services being conducted by Rev. Rosworth of Delavan assisted by the M. W. A. and R. N. A. lodges. Appropriate songs were sung by the Mrs. Moore and Williams, Messrs. Dykeman and Rokenbrodt. The interment was in the Darlen cemetery.

I desire to extend my thanks to the kind friends and neighbors who so kindly assisted in my sad bereavement.

You Can Buy Milk For a Cent a Quart

(If there's enough water in it)

You can buy paint the same way, but you only get your cent's worth of paint; the other part is water—or something about as worthless for painting.

New Era Paint

It's pure paint—every atom of it is the cheapest paint to use, because it goes further than any other paint, and lasts longer. Comes ready mixed, for use indoors or out. Ask for color cards and paint information.

NASTURTIUMS

Nasturtiums will grow in a poor, sandy soil if they have plenty of water and sunshine. We have them in mixed colors and in named separate colors. Tall or dwarf.

TEETH FOR LEAP YEAR.

We have the finest unders in solid sections, for under teeth, and know how to fit them so they will be firm and good as natural teeth. It is a great mistake to let under unders go by default when the whole force in cutting comes from the front teeth pushing the unders outward, while the cheeks sink in, making the front appear misshapen and premature old age appears. The who will get teeth made before seed time. We cure toothache in a few minutes.

FORTY YEARS AGO

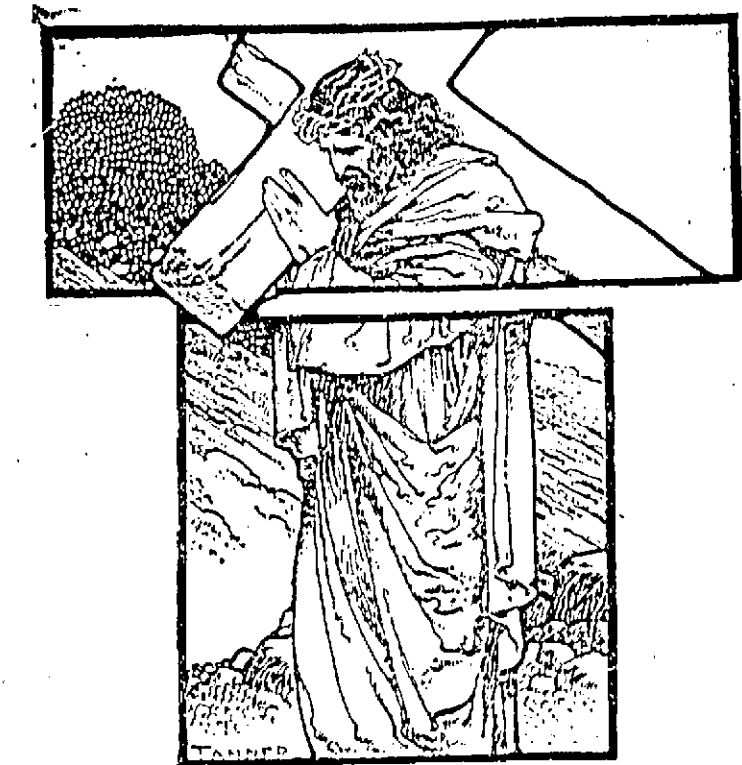

Jamesville Daily Gazette, Friday, April 17, 1868.—Held to bail.—The parties arrested on the charge of kidnapping were before Justice Hudson this morning to undergo examination, but this they waived, and were held to bail in the sum of $500 each to appear before the grand jury.

The Weather.—The "ethereal mildness" of this spring weather is of such an atrocious character that we feel like anything but complimenting it. By reason of the high, chilly wind, towering clouds and the thermometer at 36 in the shade—there being nothing else to put it in—it is decidedly uncomfortable.

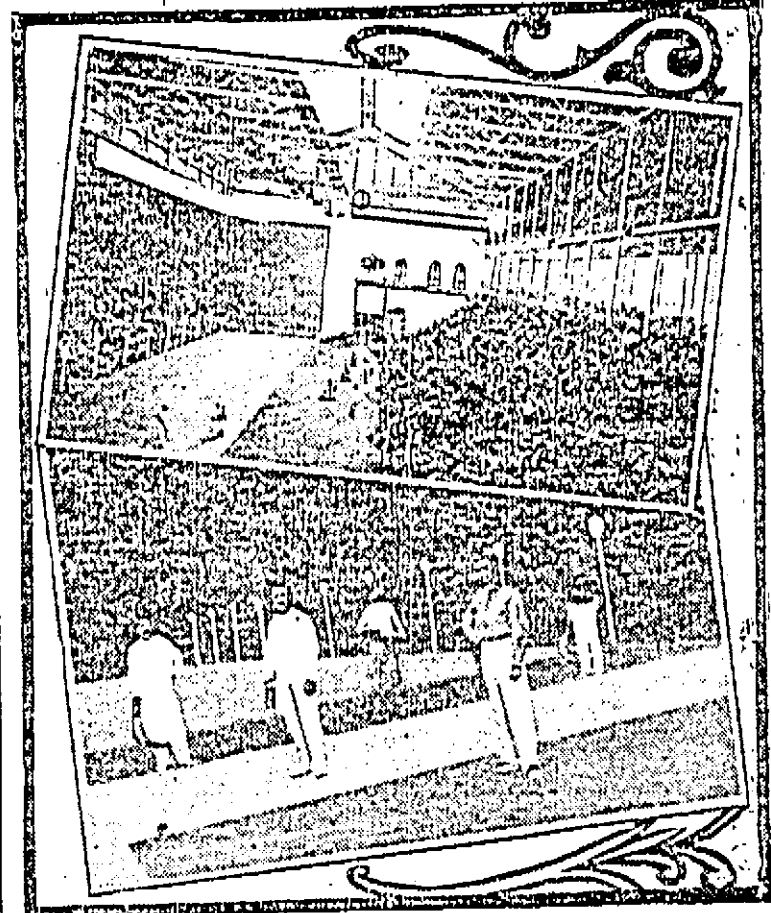

The produce dealers of St. Louis and other Mississippi cities are quite sanguine that they can ship grain and flour, via New Orleans, to Liverpool cheaper than by any other route, and just as easily. They are projecting elevators and corn dryers at several points on the river, and mean to embark in this trade in earnest. They are encouraged to do so from the success of several ventures in large transportation of grain which have been made during the past six months.

The grain producer regions of the Southwest look with interest upon those efforts to establish a new outlet for their rapidly increasing production. We believe they will be successful, and that at no distant day the Mississippi will compete with the New York and Canada routes. In the transportation of produce, it will require time to fit barges, tugs, and elevators for this purpose, and for business men to become habituated to the new channel of trade, which can be used for a much longer season than the northern route. When this new era of business is fully demonstrated, it will be seen how important would be water communication between our Rock River Valley and the Mississippi.

Washington, April 17.—The Senate court opened in due form. The Chief Justice stated that the first business in order was the order offered by Congress yesterday, that hereafter the Senate sitting as a court of impeachment should meet at ten a. m. to which Summer offered an amendment for a session from ten to six daily; the amendment was rejected by 16 to 20. Congress' motion was adopted by 29 to 11.

THE CUBAN NATIONAL GAME, JAI ALAI.

Havana, Cuba, April 14.—What baseball is to America and the billiard is to Spain, Jai Alai (pronounced Halli) is to Cuba. It is the great national sport, in which the vast majority of the residents, especially in Havana, take active interest. It is one of the greatest gambling games known and is generally considered a great detriment to the country. General Leonard Wood, when American military governor, aided the stock company of Cubans and Spaniards in securing a charter and thereby lost the support of many who believed the game to be a social cancer, whose ruin of the moral and material life of many persons, the cause of commercial failure and of the suicide of fathers of families and youths of brilliant promise. It is played Tuesday and Wednesday evenings and Sunday afternoons during the winter season. The prices range from $1.00 to $2.00, with boxes as high as $10.00. The game was introduced from Spain. The players are professionals and receive from $3,000 to 5,000 a year. Great sums have been lost on Jai Alai. The house takes 10 per cent of the wagers, which commission has in times past amounted to $20,000 a month.

So fascinating is the game that boys have now been passing in Havana for the support of many who believed the game to be a social cancer, whose ruin of the moral and material life of many persons, the cause of commercial failure and of the suicide of fathers of families and youths of brilliant promise. It is played Tuesday and Wednesday evenings and Sunday afternoons during the winter season. The prices range from $1.00 to $2.00, with boxes as high as $10.00. The game was introduced from Spain. Dispersal of the Overcrowded. Recent building statistics contained in various departmental reports seem to justify the belief that the problem of decentralizing population in this town is in a fair way of being solved. They prove that a notable dispersion of residence construction has already been achieved, and by disclosing what sort of people have been least benefited by the dispersion suggest special measures of relief on their behalf.—New York Sun.

Crazy Hata. There are some signs of hard times that no man with properly functioning optic nerves can overlook. Scores of milliners have obviously been compelled by adversity to discharge all their high salaried designers of art hats and employ in their stead madmen frantically eager to reproduce domestic Americana in headgear.

TWO OCEAN LINERS IN BAD COLLISION

ACCIDENT OCCURS IN THE LOWER NEW YORK BAY.

ONE BOAT RUNS AGROUND

Steamers Monterey and United States
Crash, the Latter Being Badly Damaged—No One Is Injured.

New York, Apr. 17.—Two ocean liners, the Monterey of the Ward line, bound for Havana, and the Danish steamer United States, of the Scandinavian-American line bound for Copenhagen, collided in the main ship channel in lower New York bay Thursday night. Both vessels were damaged, but no lives were lost and no one, so far as reported, was injured.

The Monterey had her stern damaged and several of her bow-plates loosened, but she was able to return to her dock where her passengers disembarked. They will be forwarded to Havana by another steamer, for it is probable she will have to go in to drydock for repairs.

One Steamer Is Run Aground.
The United States was more seriously damaged. A large hole was stove in her hull on the starboard side, about the engine, and so threatening was its nature that it was deemed wise to run her aground on a bank on the channel's edge. There the steamer is resting easily, the weather being clear and calm. Several wrecking tugs are standing by. Temporary repairs will be made and then the vessel will be pulled into deep water so that she can return to the city for permanent repairs. There were 30 first, 30 second and about 400 steerage passengers aboard the United States.

No great excitement occurred on either vessel, according to eyewitnesses of the collision, and fearful passengers were quickly calmed by the ship's officers who pointed out that there could be no question of their safety on such a clear day and with a handy shore.

Blame for Accident in Doubt.
Stories as to the cause of the collision and the responsibility therefor differ. The United States, according to the accounts, steamed down the bay in the wake of the Monterey. But after going by the quarantine station the Danish steamer passed the American steamer and it was just after this the accident occurred. According to some the United States had to check herself suddenly to escape running down a schooner and before the Monterey, which was close behind, could be stopped the collision occurred. Others were inclined to blame the officers of the United States for passing the Monterey in the confined limits of the ship channel and say the collision should be laid to this.

Among the passengers aboard the United States is Capt. Roald Amundsen, the explorer, who discovered the northwest passage. He was bound for his home in Christiania after an absence of three years.

The United States is a steamer of 10,000 tons burden, carries a crew of 200 men and is commanded by Capt. Walt. The Monterey is of 4,072 tons burden, was built by the Cramp line in Philadelphia in 1901. Capt. Smith is in command.

Explosives on the Monterey.
A noteworthy feature of the collision was that the Monterey had explosives aboard. These formed part of her cargo, as was made evident by her flying a red flag from a hulkard at the foremast. It was said at the steamship office that the explosives consisted of a few kegs of gunpowder and that they were stored in the magazine as prescribed by law.

CHELSEA VICTIMS ELEVEN.

Three More Bodies Are Found in the Ruins.

Doston, Apr. 17.—Three more corpses were recovered late Thursday from the ruins of Sunday's fire in Chelsea, making the total number now recovered eleven. In addition two persons have died this week of causes incident to the fire.

The bodies recovered were those of Mrs. Minnie I. Fenwick, wife of Dr. J. B. Fenwick, one of the leading physicians in Chelsea; Mrs. Walter Barnes of Glen Ridge, niece of Mrs. Fenwick, and Miss Yvonne Boyer of Chelsea, a maid in the employ of the Fenwick family.

Gov. Johnson to Address Students.
St. Paul, Minn., Apr. 17.—Gov. John A. Johnson and C. G. Scholz, assistant state superintendent of public instruction, left for Lindburg, Kan., Thursday evening, where the chief executive of the state is slated to address the students of the Chaney college next Saturday, on the occasion of the Mesquah festival at that place.

Wisconsin Legislator Dies.
Eau Claire, Wis., Apr. 17.—State Assemblyman William A. Cernahan, 42 years old, died Thursday afternoon of tetanus. He was elected assemblyman for the second district in 1906 and was the Democratic nominee for congress from the seventh district.

GLAPP IS MADE CROW CHIEF

MINNESOTA SENATOR HONORED
BY MONTANA INDIANS.

Chief Plenty Coos and His Fellow Redmen Decorate Statesman with War Bonnet.

Washington, Apr. 17.—Senator Clapp of Minnesota, chairman of the committee on Indian affairs, is now a "Hoop Big Indian," chief of the Crow tribe.

He was given a great surprise Thursday by Chief Plenty Coos and his fellow-tribesmen, who have been witnesses before the Indian committee for the past three weeks. The chief marched into the committee room at the head of the band and through an interpreter phlegmatically informed the senator that the treatment that had been accorded the Indians was highly appreciated, and that an appropriate gift was due the white chief of the committee. Chief Plenty Coos then took from one of his followers a huge war bonnet, which had been the chief's insignia of rank and worn by him whenever he went into battle. He said that he was now a man of peace and that the bonnet was of less value to him on the reservation than it would be to the senator in congress, and therefore he wanted the senator to take it.

Senator Clapp was "completely flabbergasted," according to his own description of his emotions. He took the war bonnet and thanked the chief. The decoration would create a sensation in the senate chamber if the senator should decide to wear it there. It is made of eagle feathers, a band of which goes entirely around the head and droops almost to the feet.

Plenty Coos and his band started for their reservation home in Montana Friday.

Supposed Safe-Blowers Caught.

Adrian, Mich., Apr. 17.—William McCarty, aged 27, and Charles Clarkson, aged 29, both of Chicago, are the names given by two men arrested Thursday in the attic of a church at Sylvania, O., on suspicion of being connected with the blowing up of the post office safe at Jasper Wednesday night, when $260 worth of stamps and $146 in cash were taken.

Gov. Densen Hits Back.

Carthage, Ill., Apr. 17.—Gov. Densen spoke at Mount Sterling Thursday, defying his opponents to prove a single case of favoritism in the civil service. At night he made a speech here, and struck back at Representative McLaughlin, who wanted the governor impeached in connection with the asylum investigation.

Gets Life Sentence for Murder.

Omaha, Neb., Apr. 17.—Severin Colombo was given a life sentence Thursday for the murder of his friend, Joseph Florenza. Colombo himself took the stand and testified that he first shot Florenza by accident and then by Florenza's request shot him in the body to relieve his agony.

Poisonous Gases Kill Negroes.

Macon, Ga., Apr. 17.—Three negro employees of the Rowater Gumbo company here came to their death Thursday from inhaling poisonous gases while at work in the acid chamber of the company's factory, and four more are ill from the same cause, one probably fatally.

Train Held Up in Minnesota.

Minneapolis, Minn., Apr. 17.—The west-bound Northern Pacific coast train which left the Union depot here Thursday at eight o'clock was held up by two men just outside the city limits and $11 and two watches taken from the passengers.

Test for Water Purity.

To ascertain if water is free from organic pollution place a lump of sugar in a bottle nearly full, and cork it up, and if after this excluding the air and keeping the bottle in the light for two or three days no milky cloud is apparent, but the water remains clear, it may be considered free from the phosphates with which sewage water is impregnated.—Engineering News.

TWENTY-TWO MORE TAFT DELEGATES

MINNESOTA IS SOLID FOR THE SECRETARY OF WAR.

STATE CONVENTION HELD

Platform Calls for Revision of the Tariff—Bryan Ends Michigan
Tour with Speech in Detroit.

Minneapolis, Minn., Apr. 17.—The Minnesota Republican state convention Thursday elected four delegates-at-large to the national convention at Chicago and instructed them to vote for the nomination of Secretary of War Taft until he is "selected by the convention."

The action of the convention insures that the 22 votes of Minnesota in the national convention will be cast for the secretary of war, as all the 18 district delegates are under Taft instructions.

In addition to naming delegates-at-large, the convention named four alternates-at-large, nominated 11 presidential electors, adopted a platform endorsing the administration of President Roosevelt, "especially his efforts for the establishment of a sound financial system, the enforcement of the laws and proper regulation of corporations," and declared for a revision of the tariff by a Republican congress.

The convention also instructed the Minnesota delegation to offer to the national convention the historic table that was used by the chairman of the national convention in 1892, 1896, 1900 and 1904. This table was made in 1892, by students in the Minneapolis high school.

The delegates-at-large selected are: Frank H. Kellogg, of St. Paul, Walter W. Hoffmeyer, of Minneapolis, State Senator Frank E. Putnam, of Blue Earth, and E. B. Hawkins, of Wabash. Bryan Talks at Detroit.

Detroit, Mich., Apr. 17.—William J. Bryan Thursday night concluded a two-days' speaking trip through Michigan, with an address before a large audience in the Light Guard armory on "The Point of View."

Mr. Bryan arrived in this city at six o'clock from Jackson, Mich., where he had made an address in the afternoon. He again declared that he could not discuss the Democratic state convention in New York.

He began his address by pointing out the growth in popularity of Democratic policies, distinguishing as he proceeded between the Democratic policies, as he expressed it, of the president and the undemocratic policies of the president.

Evils of Imperialism.

In discussing imperialism, Mr. Bryan referred to the demand for four new battleships and congratulated congress for cutting it down to two. He used it to illustrate the evils of imperialism and said that the Democrats had for several years been calling attention to the fact that the colonial policy, if persisted in, will not only "weaken our attachment to the doctrine of self-government, but increase our army and navy and involve us in all the perils of a land grabbing policy."

Theater Manager Set Free.

Kansas City, Mo., Apr. 17.—Following the instructions of Judge E. C. Porterfield, in the second division of the criminal court Thursday, the jury in the case against Martin Lohman, manager of the Orpheum theater, returned a verdict finding him from the charge of violating the Missouri laws against laboring on Sunday.

Prominent Lady Maccabee Dies.

Port Huron, Mich., Apr. 17.—Mrs. Helen M. Bradbeer, a trustee of the Ladies of the Maccabees and long prominent in fraternal insurance circles, died of apoplexy Thursday at her home in this city. She was 61 years old.

HIGHLY COLORED DIALOGUE.

Led by Chief Officer Barch, the entire crew of the fruit steamer Banan deserted at New York when the steamer arrived from Port Antonio, Jamaica.

A jury found a verdict of guilty in the case of the United States against Herbert P. Robinson, J. L. Layne and P. E. Holaday, tried before Judge Morris, in the federal district court at Minneapolis, on an indictment charging conspiracy.

STATE POLICE FOR CHESTER.

Mayor Asks Aid to Suppress Disorder of the Strikers.

Chester, Pa., Apr. 17.—Following early morning scenes of wild disorder during which two men were slightly injured by bullets and others were beaten by crowds, a request was sent to Gov. Stuart Thursday asking him to send two companies of the state police to this city at once to preserve order. The governor granted the request.

Mayor Johnson had declined to ask for state assistance because of the feeling against the state police. A detachment of the state guards came here last Monday from their barracks at Reading. Immediately there was friction between them and the municipal authorities, the latter declaring that they did not ask state aid. The superintendent, John C. Groome, of the state police, then withdrew his men and announced that he would not send them to Chester again unless requested by the local authorities.

Thursday afternoon a conference of city officials was held at which Mayor Johnson was informed by City Solicitor Cochran that the city of Chester, under a decision of the state supreme court, was liable to all damage done to property by rioters. Mayor Johnson then decided to call upon the governor for aid.

CAN'T OUST RISK CONCERNS.

Nebraska Restrained from Interfering with California Companies.

Lincoln, Neb., Apr. 17.—Judge T. C. Munger of the federal court Thursday afternoon issued a restraining order forbidding State Auditor Seale from interfering with the activities of the Fireman's Fund or the Pacific Mutual, both California insurance companies. The order is returnable May 4. The Nebraska insurance department attempted to oust all California companies doing business in Nebraska in order to retaliate for the rulings of the California authorities.

Late Churches.

The following is the seating capacity of the eight largest churches in the world: St. Peter's, Rome, 61,000; Milan cathedral, 37,000; St. Paul, London, 25,000; St. Sophia, Constantinople, 23,000; Notre Dame, Paris, 21,000; Florence cathedral, 20,000; Pisa cathedral, 13,000; St. Mark's, Venice, 7,000; St. Patrick's cathedral, New York, 2,500, with standing room for 8,000.

Sneezing Prayer.

The custom goes so far back into the past it is next to impossible to say when it actually began. According to Strada, the custom originated among the Assyrians, who, through an opinion of the danger that attended it, after the act of sneezing made a short prayer to the gods. The Romans, after sneezing, cried out: "Jupiter, help me!" The custom is mentioned by Homer, the early Jewish writers, and others, and is found among many savage tribes.—New York American.

Why Not Mix Brains With Your Eating?

If you mix brains with your eating you will be interested in the cost and nutritive value of your food.

Shredded Wheat contains the greatest amount of muscle-building, brain-making material in the most digestible form and at the least cost. A food for the outdoor man and the indoor man—for the invalid and the athlete.

For breakfast heat the Biscuit in oven, pour milk over it (hot milk in winter) and a little cream. If you like the Biscuit for breakfast you will like toasted TRISCUIT (the Shredded Wheat wafer) for luncheon or any meal with butter, cheese or marmalade. At your grocers.

REMARKABLE RECORD MADE IN NORTHWEST

Young Man with New Theory Is Astonishingly Successful in Minneapolis.

The remarkable success that has attended L. T. Cooper during the past year has not been confined to any one locality, but is so widespread that the young man is now a well-known figure in most of the leading cities of the country.

Mr. Cooper believes that the stomach is the foundation for most ill health, and claims that his preparation, by regulating the stomach, is a true specific for most diseases. The following extract from the Tribune of Minneapolis gives an idea of the surprising number of people who are accepting Cooper's theory. The article was one of many that appeared during Cooper's stay in Minneapolis, and is as follows:

"The sale of Cooper's preparation is now phenomenal in this city, and an estimate made today seems to indicate beyond all doubt that it will equal the large figures reported from Pittsburg during the thirty days Mr. Cooper spent in that city.

"During the past twenty-two days Mr. Cooper has been in Minneapolis, the sale of his preparation has averaged about two thousand bottles a day. When the amount of medicine disposed of throughout the state is added to this, the amount will be doubled. Therefore, the young man has sold in twenty-two days eighty-eight thousand bottles of his medicine in the state of Minnesota alone, which is a truly remarkable record.
"During the past week so many hundreds of Minneapolis people have been calling to thank Cooper for the good he has accomplished with his medicine, that it is safe to say that his visit will long be remembered by the sick of the city."
We sell the famous Cooper preparation which has made a similar record to the above wherever introduced.—E. J. Helmstrom.

THE CAPTAIN OF the KANSAS

By LOUIS TRACY.

Author of "The Wings of the Morning," "The Pillar of Light," Etc.

COPYRIGHT, 1906, BY EDWARD J. CLODE

Walker in his brief catalogue of occupations had suppressed one. To make sure Christobal closed a water-tight bulkhead door which cut off the principal waterways from the saloon. Then he and his two helpers carried out a painful but necessary task. It was his duty to certify whether or not life was extinct. There were very few exceptions. The three men lifted the bodies and threw them overboard. When they reached the corpse of the second officer and a Spanish engineer who had been killed in the defense of the jolly boat—his comrades had scrambled into one of the lifeboats—Tollmache took possession of such money, documents and valuables as were in their pockets, intending to draw up an inventory when an opportunity presented itself.

Though they knew not the moment when a skeletoning crash would herald the final dissolution of the ship, they proceeded with their work methodically. In half an hour they had reached the end. All the injured men—seven nondescript sailors and three—were carried to the saloon and placed under Christobal's care. Walker lived below to the engine room, where he had already disconnected the main broken or bent by the fracture of a main shaft, which in turn was injured by the blowing out of a junk ring, a stout ring of forged steel secured to one of the pistons. He could do nothing more on deck. Whether he was destined to live fifty seconds or as many years, he was ill content to hear his beloved engines knocking themselves to pieces with each roll of the ship.

Tollmache, who undertook the firing of the donkey boiler, which was situated on the main deck aft of the saloon—for the Kansas was built chiefly to accommodate cargo—during his wanderings round the world had picked up sufficient knowledge of steam power to shovel fuel into the furnace and regulate the water level by the feed valve and pump. The small engine, more reliable and quite as powerful as a hundred men, was in perfect order.

The Kansas rolled heavily. The roll was caused by an experimental twist of the wheel. Christobal, peering into the darkness through the open window of the chart house, saw that the weather was clearing. He had evolved a theory, and for want of a better, he was determined to pursue it to a finish. The Kansas was being swiftly carried along in a strong and deep tidal current. Happily the wind followed the set of the sea, else there would be no chance of success for his daring plan. His expedition was the desperate one of keeping the vessel in the line of the current, and if day broke before he reached the coast he would steer for any opening which presented itself in the fringe of reefs which must necessarily guard the mainland.

With his hands grasping the rail and in one sense irresponsible mechanism of a steering wheel governed by steam a sailor can "feel" the movement of his ship, a seaworthy vessel being a living thing, obedient as a docile horse to the least touch of the rein. But in the unlikely event of fortune favoring Christobal to the extent of giving him an opportunity to see the coming danger it was essential that the ship should have a certain radius of action apart from the direction and force of the ocean stream. The two sails were helpful, and it was to measure himself of their efficiency that he put the helm to starboard. The Kansas obeyed with an answering roll to port, showing clearly that she was traveling a little faster than the rushing tide would take her unaided.

He brought her head back to its old position and glanced over his shoulder at the ship's chronometer. It was a quarter to 1. Two hours must pass before he would discern the first faint streaks of light. At any rate, if he were spared to greet the dawn it would be right ahead, and, as a few seconds might then be of utmost value, that was a small point in his favor. Yet, two hours! Could he dare to hope for so long a respite? How could the ship escape the unnumbered fangs which a storm torn head thrust far out into the Pacific for its own protection?

He was quite sheltered from the wind and spray in the chart house, and at once he became aware of a burning thirst. There was water in a decanter close at hand, so he indulged in a long drink. That was wonderfully refreshing. Then his mind turned longingly to tobacco. For the first time in his life he broke the strict rule of the service in which he had been trained and smoked a cigar while on duty.

Now and again he spoke cheerfully to the dog.

"Well, Joey, here we are; still got a bark in us?" and "You and I still have our names on the admiralty chart. Joey—Channel surveyed by Captain Courtney and pup; details uncertain. How does that sound, old chap?" And again: "I suppose your friend, Miss Maxwell, is asleep by this time. If she calls you Joey, do you call her Bessie? I rather fancy Bessie as a name. What do you think?" To all of which the dog, who had found a dry corner, would respond with a smile and a tail wag.

The long wait in the darkness would have broken many a man's nerve, but Courtney was not cast in a mold to be either bent or broken by fear. When his cigar was not in his mouth he whistled, he hummed snatches of being able to steer with any real knowledge of his surroundings. The wheel twisting therefore saved of magic. But his orders were to look ahead, and he obeyed.

Soon he thought he could discern an irregular plink crooked, with the concave side downward, somewhere in the blackness beyond the bows. Speedily it was joined by two others equally irregular and somewhat lower.

"Captain, I've seen you?" he asked in a voice tremulous with awe.

"Yes. That is the sun just catching the summits of snow topped hills. It not only forestalls the dawn, but is a sign of the weather. There are no clouds over the land or we should not see the peaks."

Ever long a silver gray light began to dispel the gloom. The two silent watchers first saw it overhead, and the vast dome of day swiftly widened over the vexed sea. The aftermath of the storm spread a low, dense cloak of vapor all round. The wind had fallen so greatly that they could hear the song of the rigging. Soon they could distinguish the outlines of the heavy rollers near at hand, and Courtney believed that the ship in her passage encountered in the water several narrow bands of a bright red color. If this were so, he knew that the phenomenon was caused by the prevailing easterlies which sailors call "wine food," a sure sign of deep water close to land and, further, an indication that the current was still flowing strongly, while the force of the sea must have been broken many miles to westward.

Suddenly he turned to Walker.

"Do you think you could shin up to the masthead?" he asked.

"I used to be able to climb a bit, sir." "Well, try the foremast. Up there I am fairly certain you can see over this bank of mist. Don't get into trouble. Come back if you feel you can't manage it. If you succeed, take the best observations possible and report."

Courtney was becoming anxious now. If he dared let go the wheel he would have climbed the mast himself. Walker set about his mission in a businesslike manner. He threw off his thick coat and boots and went forward. Halfway up the mast there was a rope ladder for the use of the sailors when adjusting pulleys.

The rest of the journey was not difficult for an athletic man, and Walker was quickly an indistinct figure in the fog. He gained the truck all right and instantly yelled something. Courtney fancied he said:

"My God, watch on the works!"

Whatever it was, Walker did not wait, but slid downward with such speed that it was fortunate the rigging barred his progress.

And then, even while Courtney was shouting some explanation, a great black wall rose out of the deep on the port bow. It was a pinnacle rock high as the ship's main, but only a few feet wide at sea level, and the Kansas sped past this ugly monster as though it were a buoy in a well marked channel.

Courtney heard the sea breaking against it. The ship could not have been more than sixty feet distant, a little more than her own beam, and he fully expected that she would grind against some outcrop in the next instant. But the Kansas had a charmed life. She ran on unscathed and seemed to be travelling in smoother water after this escape.

Walker's dark skin was the color of parchment when he reached the chart house.

"Captain," he said weakly, "I'll do over my engines, but I'm no good at Nasal Catarrh is a nauseating disease any one knows who has had to sit close to, or talk face-to-face with a person reeking with purulent catarrh. To get a whiff of the bad breath of such a person is to sicken at once and turn away.

Have you ever had to endure, in sickening silence, the howling and gagging of a Catarrh victim, or have to sit close to such a person and experience a disgusting, appetite-dulling, foul odor, which you could not explain and did not know what it was? That's Catarrh, and there are plenty of people who have it. You can get rid of your case without much delay and avoid becoming an object of aversion to others, or even members of your own family, by merely using the simplest cure in the world—Bunsen's Catarrh Cure.

Millions of trial boxes are given away annually, thereby risking our reputation and every one that is tried produces immediate beneficial results.

Bunsen's Catarrh Cure is a cream-like, antiseptic healing balm. The great remedial agents, Oil of Eucalyptus, Menthol, Boracic Acid, etc., are incorporated into a smooth, velvety-like Petroleumum.

This creation—Bunsen's Catarrh Cure—produces immediate and lasting relief to sufferers from Catarrhal Discharges, Nasal Catarrh, Hay Fever and Cold in the Head.

Try Bunsen's Catarrh Cure; we say it is pure excellence, the most rapid, thorough and effective treatment ever prepared for the cure of catarrhal troubles of the nose and throat and we say it because of the results obtained from its use.

Mrs. Jack Lynn, Clintonville, Wis., says: "I have used Bunsen's Catarrh Cure for Nasal Catarrh and wish to state it is the only medicine that ever did me any good."

"My God, watch on the works!" this name. That thing fairly frightened me. Did you see it?"
"Did you see land?" demanded Courtney imperatively. His spirits rose with each of these thrills. He felt that it was ordained that his ship should live.
"Yes, sir. The aw's hills, and big ones, a long way ahead, but I'm not going out that must again. It would be suicide. I'm done. I'll never forget you stone ghost—no, not if I live to be ninety."

CHAPTER VIII.

FORTUNE has her cycles, whether for good or ill. The Kansas, having run the gamut of many dangers, seemed to have earned an approving smile from the fickle goddess. A slight but perceptible veering of the wind, combined with the increasing power of the sun's rays, swept the ocean clear of its storm wreaths. Soon after passing the pillar rock Courtney thought he could make out the unwavering outline of mountains and delivered short lectures to Joey on the absurdity of things in general and the special ridiculousness of such a mighty combination of circumstances centering on one poor ship as had foregathered to crush the Kansas.

Ever since he was aroused from sleep by the stopping of the screw his mind had dwelt on the unprecedented nature of the breakdown. Even before he discovered its cause he was wondering what evil chance had contrived to cripple the engine at such a moment—in the worst possible place on the map.

"Joey," he said suddenly, his thoughts reverting to a chance remark made to him in Valparaiso by Isabel's father, "what did Mr. Darling mean by saying there was a difficulty about the insurance?"

Joey gave it up, but he cocked his ears and looked toward the door. Christobal entered.

"Boys will recover," he said when he had wiped the spray off his face. "He had a narrow escape. The knife just grazed the spinal cord. The shock to the dorsal nerves induced temporary paralysis, and that rather misled me. He is much better now. Under ordinary conditions he would be able to get about in a few days. As it is, he will probably live as long as any of us."

Christobal waved a hand toward the external void. He was not sailor enough to realize the change in the weather.

"That is good news," said Courtney. "I thought you would like to know. How are things up here?"

"Better. The barometer has risen an inch in less than two hours. Possibly nearness to the land has some effect, but wind and sea are subsiding."
"You surprise me, yet that is nothing. I have had several surprises to-night. What is the position? Of course we must hit the North American continent sooner or later. Can you fix an approximate time?"

CATARRH BLOOD UNHEALTHY SYSTEM DERANGED

The entire inner portion of the body is covered with mucous membrane; this membranous tissue is abundantly supplied with blood vessels, veins, arteries, and capillaries. Each of these is constantly supplying to this tissue or lining, blood to nourish and strengthen it and keep the system healthy. When the blood becomes infected with catarrhal matter it is not able to furnish the required amount of healthful properties, but feeds the parts with impurities which disease the membranes and tissues so that they become irritated and inflamed, and Catarrh, with all its disagreeable and dangerous symptoms, is established in the system. There is a constant ringing in the ears, a thin, watery discharge from the nostrils, the breath has an offensive odor, slight fever often accompanies the disease, and gradually the entire health becomes affected and the system upset and deranged. In its earlier stages, when Catarrh is confined to the nose and throat, sprays, washes, inhalations, etc., are soothing and in a way beneficial, because they are clean and usually antiseptic, but such treatment has no curative effect, because it does not reach the blood. To cure Catarrh the blood must be purified, and this is just what S. S. S. does. It goes down into the circulation and attacks the disease at its foundation; it removes the cause and makes the blood pure and healthy. Then the blood vessels are filled with fresh, reinvigorated blood, which is carried to all the mucous surfaces and linings, the inflammation and irritation are corrected, the symptoms all disappear, the health is improved and Catarrh is permanently cured. The Amman community. Picture at upper left shows milla run by Amman community. Upper right shows the seventeenth century costumes and lower picture the only means of transportation in the community.

(By Special Correspondent.)

Das Amman, Iowa, April 17.—While America is spotted with the ruins of attempted socialist communities, one in Iowa has succeeded beyond the anticipation of even those who founded it.

The Amman community, which has about 1,500 members, is quoted as being worth $15,000,000. The organization started from about 700 Germans who settled in the community in 1845.

Working early for the advancement of the soul the property has also kept rapid pace. The community presents an odd picture. Believing in the life of simplicity the inhabitants wear the costume of the seventeenth century with such changes as convenience and not style have suggested. They do not paint their houses, for the same reason they do not insure them on the contention that it is not economy. They have five villages and the method of communication and transportation between these is ex teams. They speak the German language exclusively. No music instruments are tolerated in the community. Every member is guaranteed a good living and helps in his way the upbuilding. No money is used. It is like one great family. All have private residence, but eat at common kitchens. Community stores are maintained where every member is accorded as much credit a year. Their religious observance is simplicity itself. They believe in inspiration today as in bible times. They believe this life but preparatory for the future. When one dies he is quietly buried in the little cemetery with simple rites and his grave marked by but a little board marker.

The community has a passion for flowers, and the unpainted walls in summer time are covered with green and flowering creepers. All titles and modes of address are viewed with disapprobation and they greet each other as "brother" and "sister," and speak with the "yea" and "nay." From village to village their interurban. There is no other method of transportation.

The church, that tie that binds them together, is a large, plain building with bare walls within and with wooden benches scrubbed white for seats. A plain wooden table constitutes the pulpit. No bell is used, and yet service hour finds every man and woman in his or her place. Services are conducted by one of the 80 elders. Services, as well as the conversation of daily life, are in German. The devotions consist of reading from the bible and from the inspiration of modern prophets. For but 20 years ago Harbana Heilmann, the prophet of the society died, and ever since the members have been longing and hoping for the arrival of a new prophet.

Not a musical instrument is to be heard in the village, unless it is played by some stranger passing through, for these are forbidden the members, and all praise God is by voice.

Celliery is the highest ideal of their life, but realizing long ago that this strictly adhered to would arrest growth of their community they have sided matrimony. A rather unique plan has been in vogue in the community which might be more generally patterned after as a solution for the divorce evil. There are five villages in the community and when a young man announces his determination to make a young woman his wife he takes his few necessities and departs for another village. There according to the law of the community he must remain for the period of one year without sight of or communication with his chosen wife. If, at the end of this time both remain true to their affection and steadfast in church, they are married with a simple ceremony and are assigned to a home of their own, to take their meals, however, at the common "kitchen."

When one enters this community he surrenders all his worldly wealth. Should he ever desire to leave he is restored what he put in, but without interest.

There are possibly no more picturesque villages in America than those of Amman. On the undulating prairie of Iowa are found these five "berths" cozily smuggled down by the edge of a wide stream. They have winding streets and unpainted houses. But this barren effect is easily imagined has been largely overcome by a love of nature imbued within the spirit of the residents and over the unpainted walls creep beautiful vines and an abundance of roses. In June the green vines and red petals of the flowers supply with beautiful effect, the want of artificial decoration.

In the management of Amman affairs there is equal suffrage; the women having an equal vote with the men. Compulsory education has long been practiced and among those grown the principle of, "He who does not work shall not eat," is strongly maintained.

AS MEANS OF IDENTIFICATION.

Mrs. Brady's Helpful Hint to Her Faithful "Micky."

The Bradys used to drive several miles to mass each Sunday in "the little trap" with "th' old gray mare," Micky, "the boy," a being of many summers, whom custom and a conservative tradition had, in spite of his uncertain years, always treated as the possessor of perpetual adolescence, drove. Next him sat Mrs. Brady, decorous in black, while scattered about the straw in the body of the vehicle, was a large assortment of "the children"—Bradys of all ages, sexes and sizes, bare-legged and otherwise—each exuberant and articulate.

It remains to this day a disputed point among the Bradys as to what memory of earlier and more frisky days induced "th' old gray mare" to behave as she did on this particular Sunday.

Rounding a corner, she swerved into the ditch, and before Micky, the boy, could cope with the situation, a pile of Bradys, vertical and horizontal, had been dumped into the ditch, with the little trap turned over and rusting on top of the struggling heap.

Then, high above the babel of cries came Mrs. Brady's voice: "Pull me out, Micky, for the love of hivin! The black legs is mine!" — Cleveland Leader.

MORE THAN THEY COULD STAND.

Fish Story Too Much Even for Hardened Listeners.

"Speaking about showers of fish," said the solemn-looking nature faker from his seat on the starboard, "reminds me of the time we were marooned on an island in the blue Pacific. For two hours there was a shower of fresh mackerel and, strange to say, they all dropped into a salt lake on the mountainside. That brined them."

"Whew!" the old codgers chorused in unison.

"But that's not the strangest part of the story. Ten days later a cyclone came along, picked up the brined mackerel and dropped them into a hot spring. That boiled them; and, gentlemen, they were the finest boiled mackerel you ever tasted. I thought about sending some home to the folks, but—"

There was a sudden interruption and six strong men took the nature faker outside and ducked him in the horse trough.

Important Find of Old Coins.

In the side of an old well where it had lain undisturbed for 2,200 years, an earthenware jar containing 500 pieces of the time of Alexander the Great has been found, at Luxor, Egypt. One hundred of these were specimens of the silver tetradrachm of Alexander the Great, a coin corresponding in weight to our half dollar. The pieces are very thick, and around of silver of great purity. The obverse bears the head of Hercules in a lion's skin; the reverse shows Zeus seated in a chair. All bear the name of Alexander in Greek. Monograms and mint marks of great interest were found on many pieces of this lot, and some of the pieces bore the Greek word for the mint marks, designating the towns or cities where they were struck. The coins are all in very high relief, so that only two or three could be stacked together without their tumbling over.

Money in Growing Pecans.

Strung along at a few points north of Jackson on the Illinois Central a few years ago some enterprising gentlemen established pecan groves. We remember two years after one grove of about 5,000 trees was set out in a territory previously given over to commercial fertilizer, short staple cotton and poor white people. The natives were exceedingly amused that a man could be so visionary as to expect to get any returns for money thus invested. There were even more enlightened people who passed by on comfortable trains and smiled at the experiment. To-day that grove is keeping its owner in clover and he can go to Europe every summer if he is so inclined.—Meridian (Miss.) Star.

Air Pressure and Health.

Investigating the effect of compressed air on health, two British engineers have shown that a pressure of 32 pounds a square inch—more than six atmospheres—may be endured without unpleasant results. The pressure must be taken off at a uniform rate, however, at least 20 minutes being allowed for each 15 pounds of reduction, and capillary circulation in the body must be kept up by muscular exercise during compression. Slight temporary neuralgic pain in the arms was the only ill effect of the great pressure.

Play Has Historic Characters.

Alfred Toston's new play, "Glacé, the Russian," which was recently performed for the first time is described as the "life of the great master of music." In the fourth act, which is laid in Paris in 1849, Richard Wagner appears as one of the characters. He is still unknown and is spoken of as the embodiment of the glorious future, while Rossini is spoken of as the glorious past. A third in the group is Vincenzo Bellini. The title part was played by Ernesto Jacconi.
